DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 2, 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hoshino et al. Patent No. 61-295494 in view of Asano et al. US Patent No. 5,078,207.

Referring to claims 1, 2, 4 and 5, Hoshino discloses the applicant's invention as claimed with the exception of providing a connecting member having a bend.

Asano discloses a heat exchanger and fin for the same that does provide a connecting member having a bend (see figure 3). Therefore it would be obvious to modify Hoshino's invention by providing a connecting member having a bend as taught by Hoshino in order to reduce the stresses on the turbulator.

Referring to claims 1, 2, 4 and 5, it has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987).

The intended use statements are not given any patentable weight in this instance for example "fluid flowing through the turbulator flows through the louvers in the direction generally parallel to the longitudinal axis".

Art Unit: 3743

Referring to claims 1, 2, 4 and 5, the applicant claims adjacent longitudinal spaced offset louvers being spaced apart by first distance and adjacently laterally spaced offset louvers being spaced apart by second distance that is less than the first distance. Since the applicant has not established any criticality on why the distance between the adjacent offset louvers and the adjacently lateral offset louvers must be different, the examiner therefore comes to a conclusion that it is simply a matter of design choice as long as the louvers provide efficient cooling the distance between the two louvers should not matter.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
